Through the kindness of Prof. Lister we have been permitted to view a photograph of the laboratory at the school building with the class at work. The picture is a flash-light production by Waterman and is perfect in every particular, showing the chemicals in their positions, pupils pouring and compounding with the Professor in the midst explaining and giving orders. This branch in our school has during Mr. Lister's administration been greatly enlarged and many useful and necessary articles such as apparatus and chemicals have been added, also course changed from twelve to twenty weeks thus allowing a graduate admission to other schools without an examination.—Saline Observer.
